

A Bold New Addition to Long Island's Landscape and Artistic Legacy

The forthcoming Piet Oudolf Garden at Planting Fields.

"I'm excited to be designing a new garden for Planting Fields, which will be my first public project on Long Island. Planting Fields provides a wonderful background for my garden", says Piet Oudolf. "The site's layered landscape and ongoing cultural initiatives also create an environment to enjoy the garden through all seasons."

For the first time in over a decade, Oudolf will create a public garden in New York, a state already known for its iconic parks and public spaces. The Piet Oudolf Garden at Planting Fields will elevate Planting Fields as a world-class destination, offering a rare opportunity to experience Oudolf's visionary work in a public space. The new garden will seamlessly blend into the rich, layered landscape of the historic site, offering a place of quiet reflection, foster sustainability, encourage community engagement, and promote a deep appreciation for the natural world.

PFF invites individuals, foundations, and corporate partners to contribute to this transformative project. By supporting the Piet Oudolf Garden at Planting Fields, you're aligning your vision with a cause that celebrates environmental stewardship, artistry, and community. With your support, this project will bring unparalleled beauty, sustainability, and cultural enrichment to Long Island, creating an enduring legacy that will draw visitors from near and far. Sponsorship opportunities are available now at a range of levels, and a Sponsor-A-Plant program launching at the end of June will provide additional ways to be part of this project.

Through a balanced approach to preserving and creating, the Foundation stewards the built and natural environment of Planting Fields as a public center of learning and life. Planting Fields is a dynamic and vibrant site that features numerous historic structures, Olmsted Brothers-designed landscapes, and world class art and horticultural collections. As a former Gold Coast estate, it is preserved today as a celebration of art, architecture, landscape, and the people that resided on its land. Annual festivals and seasonal 5Ks, as well as year-round programs, lectures, symposia, exhibitions, concerts, performances, and family events take place, ushering in over 200,000 visitors each year. Thousands of school-aged children engage with Planting Fields to learn about the sciences and humanities through varied offerings that are uniquely reflected at the site.
